

Commitment to Insurance Claim Process

Obtaining funding for your PediaLift Device can be a time-consuming process and will require actions and documentation coordination from you as the client. With insurance claims, we must compile a complete funding packet and submit a claim to your insurance company. It is not uncommon for the insurance company to deny the initial claim and require multiple appeals be conducted prior to approving the product and providing funding.

While this process is time consuming and expensive to our organization, we do not ask for any upfront money for our professional services. We do, however, require you to complete the process once it has started and to assist us as needed by reasonable request (i.e. making a phone call or sending a letter to your insurance company, acquiring additional signatures from your doctor etc.). If you do decide to withdraw your funding request after we have begun the process, you may be charged for the expenses we have incurred while attempting to process your claim.

If after submittals and conducting appeals, your insurance company refuses to provide funding, you will not be charged for our professional services as so long as you have complied with the reasonable requests as listed above.

By signing this agreement, you are stating that you understand, acknowledge and commit to timely cooperation of requests and to completion of the process.
